

Suggested Viewing and Reading List

Here at Bushmans Quiver we see a lot of game taken by our clients on a daily basis. Just the same, we spend a portion of our time viewing video of African hunts taking place in other parts of the continent. "Why?" you might ask. The reason is a simple one. We feel there is a lot to share with our potential clients regarding the topic of safari hunting all across Africa, and what better way to educate new hunters about African hunting than to refer them to a viewing and reading list that we feel will broaden their knowledge and experience in advance of our placing them in front of their first African trophy? Admittedly, some of the material we view is not of the nature that we feel would benefit a new client, however below we have listed those DVDs and reading sources that we feel would be of benefit to a new client if they choose to avail themselves of this material. With each item we list we provide a brief synopsis of the contents and why we feel the client might find the material useful. Also, the client will gain a good perspective on what constitutes a quality animal and a quality hunt. We like this concept very much because it gives us at Bushmans Quiver all the more incentive to live up to the client's expectations.

Suggested Viewing List:

CRAIG BODDINGTON'S AFRICAN EXPERIENCE

A companion piece to his book of the same title. We like his book better, but if you prefer video to text then make this choice.

FLACK HUNTS SOUTH AFRICA – A DOCUMENTARY (two disc set)

This two-disc set packs a lot of useful information for both the beginning and experienced African hunter. Peter Flack's love of South Africa and respect for the game animals he hunts really comes through in this presentation. Excellent depiction of the various South African biospheres, hunts for plains game, reptiles, tips on clothing and equipment. A must for the first-timer to RSA.

BEASTS OF LEGEND – WITH IVAN CARTER

Ivan Carter is quite the wordsmith, and a good story-teller. In this DVD he takes the viewer on several hunts for the BIG 7 (elephant, buffalo, lion, leopard, rhino, hippo, and crocodile). A must for anyone interested in these animals.

BODDINGTON ON LION

Good primer for the first-time lion hunter.

BODDINGTON ON BUFFALO 2 (two disc set)

We haven't seen the first one, but this sequel is informative, useful, and entertaining. Boddington helps us shape our perspective on what constitutes a trophy animal. Good primer for the first-time buffalo hunter.

BODDINGTON ON ELEPHANT (two disc set)

Good primer for the first-time elephant hunter. Makes a good comparison between historical elephant hunting and the ever-expanding opportunities today.

HUNTING THE AFRICAN ELEPHANT – THE COMPLETE GUIDE - Buzz Charlton & Myles McCallum

A fantastic primer on hunting these unpredictable creatures. Excellent tutorial on gender identification (bulls and cows have tusks), habits, and hunting techniques. The filming sequences and playbacks on shot placement are indispensable to the new elephant hunter in understanding how to make that first shot count.

THE ESSENCE OF ELEPHANT HUNTING – Buzz Charlton & Myles McCallum

The sequel to HUNTING THE AFRICAN ELEPHANT. Perhaps not as instructive as the original on shot placement, but very informative as to how to stay safe after the shot is made. The sequences on elephant charges are impressive and instructive in what can go wrong in hunting these challenging beasts.

BIG BOTSWANA TUSKERS – Johann Calitz

Though Botswana is not an inexpensive place to hunt it does harbor some of the biggest-bodied elephant carrying some impressive ivory. In this DVD the viewer gets to compare these animals thereby developing a well-grounded appreciation for ivory mass. We like this DVD because these bulky tuskers often migrate into RSA where some of our own elephant concessions are located.

Suggested Reading List:

THE PERFECT SHOT – Kevin Robertson

There are two versions of this: the mini edition (for field use), and the full-size edition (for reference) measuring 8.5" x 11". Both editions show shot-placement diagrams on a host of African species plus additional information. For its full breadth of subject matter we prefer the full-size edition containing 271 pages and 160 color photographs (photo image shown above). The chapters devoted to bullet construction, bullet and caliber selection, ballistics and killing power are some of the best examples of writing on these topics. Highly recommended.

AFRICAN EXPERIENCE – Craig Boddington

In this classic by the well-known current day hunter and writer Boddington covers every aspect of the modern-day safari. Excellent tutorial for the first-timer to Africa.

21 DAYS IN AFRICA – Daniel J. Donarski, Jr

Retired Col. Daniel J. Donarski, Jr. takes the reader along on his first South African safari. Informative description of what it's like. Good photos of the African bush and harvested game. Useful tips for the first-timer.

SAFARI – THE ROMANCE & THE REALITY – Molly Buchanan

Chronicles the history of the great African adventure from the exploits of Teddy Roosevelt and other privileged hunters to the innovative efforts of modern-day conservationists. Nice assemblage of both historical and modern-day photos.

ON THE TRAIL OF THE WILD – Rafael Ben-Shahar

Written from the perspective of a conservationist rather than a hunter, the book provides an intriguing perspective on the geology, flora, and fauna all across the southern end of the continent. Descriptions of animal behavior are of interest to the hunter, and photos are impressive as well.

THE WANDERINGS OF AN ELEPHANT HUNTER – W.D.M. Bell

Considered to be the greatest of all elephant books by the greatest of all elephant hunters, written during the glory days of Bell's career. Black and white photos and sketches including sketches of proper bullet placement.

KARAMOJO SAFARI – W.D.M. Bell

Insightful look at ivory hunting at the end of the 19th century by the best known of all elephant hunters prior to WWI. This is the sequel to THE WANDERINGS OF AN ELEPHANT HUNTER.

PONDORO – THE LAST OF THE IVORY HUNTERS – John Taylor

For more than 30 years Taylor was a professional hunter, often out of touch with civilization for as long as 3 or 4 years at a stretch. In this book he covers a wide-array of African animals (plains game, elephant, rhino, hippo, buffalo, lion, leopard, etc.) and what it takes to successfully hunt them.

THE BOOK OF THE LION – Sir Alfred Pease

Sir Alfred did most of his lion hunting in the first decade of the last century. He was, of course, a contemporary of Theodore Roosevelt, hunted with him, and dedicated this book to him. Much good information on lion behavior, lion hunting, during the period of transition from the 8-10-12 bore guns to modern (for the day) high-velocity smaller bores. His perspective on courage, native intelligence, and civilization contained in the first chapter is worth the price of the book alone. Highly recommended for all hunters, not just lion hunters.

ELEPHANT HUNTING IN EAST EQUATORIAL AFRICA – Arthur H. Neuman

Along with W.D.M. Bell and James Sutherland, Arthur H. Neuman was probably one of the most famous of the old ivory hunters. Bell was the best shot, Sutherland lasted the longest, but Neuman has been considered the most interesting and least typical. This book is not all that instructive for the present day elephant hunter, however we like it because it dispels the often held notion that Africa in the first part of the last century was seething with game and that the old ivory hunters were constantly taking 90 pound tusks. In fact, quite the opposite was true; these men hunted hard to find game, which was scarce in many regions, and the average tusk size was probably about 50 pounds, which they were happy to encounter. The most logical conclusion to be drawn from this book is that the best time to hunt Africa is now, not 100 years ago.

THE HUNTER'S GUIDE TO ACCURATE SHOOTING – Wayne van Zwoll

Wayne van Zwoll, a former competitive shooter, guide, and hunter with 35 years experience provides practical advice on effectively delivering precise shots on game animals in the field using a rifle.

1 & DONE – Marc Watts

Former CNN reporter and famed African hunter Marc Watts gives useful insight on what it takes to make that first shot count. Marc delves into the mental game necessary to be a successful game shot. In 5X7 format and at only 125 pages this is one of the best books on game shooting with a rifle.

SAFARI RIFLES II – Craig Boddington

If you like firearms as much as you like hunting this is the book for the firearms enthusiast heading to Africa. Probably includes much more information than the casual hunter will need, but the photos alone are worth the price of the book, and the subject matter is fully covered for those who appreciate this sort of detail.
